

Senator Joseph T. Robinson Dies Suddenly In His Apartment

SUFFERED HEART ATTACKS DURING RECENT MONTHS

Death Throws Administration Legislative Program In Turmoil

BODY DISCOVERED BY NEGRO MAID

Been Working With Terrific Energy on Compromise Court Bill

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Senator Joe T. Robinson, the Democratic leader, died early today in his apartment, according to his "face to the battle."

The 64-year-old Arkansan, his party's leader in the senate since 1922, died alone early today in his apartment home. He was found face downward on his bathroom floor, after a weary week of fighting for the administration's court reform bill.

Plans were made for a state funeral service in the senate chamber Friday at noon with Mr. Roosevelt as chief mourner. Funeral arrangements were made after senate leaders had talked with the senator's widow at Little Rock, Ark., the senator's home, Sunday.

Both senate and house planned to adjourn out of respect. Leaders, the nation over, expressed sorrow. Funeral arrangements were made after senate leaders had talked with the senator's widow at Little Rock, Ark., by telephone.

Announced By Senator Caraway
The saddened senate heard Robinson's fellow Arkansan, Senator Hattie W. Caraway, announce the leader's death.

"It is with deep grief," she said to her hushed audience, "that I rise to announce the death of my colleague and the leader of this body, the late senator from Arkansas, Mr. Robinson."

"It is not my purpose at this time to try to enumerate the good qualities or to call attention to the statesmanship of the man whom the senate, the nation and the state will so greatly miss and whose death all so deeply deplore."

At the end of her brief speech, delivered in trembling voice, Mrs. Caraway offered the usual resolution of adjournment out of respect for the deceased senator.

Before it was voted, Senator Barkley (D-K. Y.) acting majority leader, offered a eulogy. As he talked, many senators sat with bowed heads and closed eyes. Mrs. Caraway held her hands over her eyes.

The Arkansas house delegation also called in a group at the Robinson apartment. Senator Hattie Caraway, Robinson's colleague from Arkansas, announced she would accompany the body home.

Both senate and house made plans to suspend business immediately after convening at noon out of respect to the dead leader.

Robinson's body was discovered at 7:15 a. m. (CST) by the family's Negro maid, Mary Jasper.

Coroner A. Magruder Macdonald said his death was due to heart disease.

Doctor George W. Calver, capitol physician said Robinson apparently had left his bed about midnight and had gone to the bathroom where he fell face downward.

Calver said Robinson, who was 64 years old, had suffered several heart attacks in recent months.

The physician said that when Robinson made the address which touched off fiery senate debate on the court issue he became very pale and apparently cut his address short.

"I did not see him at the time," Calver said, "but many who were there noticed he became very pale and apparently cut his speech short. Senator Copeland rushed to his side when he stopped speaking."

Tentative plans were made to send Senator Robinson's body to Arkansas tomorrow.

Colleagues To Home
As word of his death spread over the capital, many of his colleagues went to the Robinson home, the first to arrive were Senators Harrison (D-Miss) and Walsh (D-Mass).

"I am shocked beyond expression," Harrison said as he departed.

"Senator Robinson's death was most tragic, coming, as it did, in the midst of one of his greatest fights and just before he was to be honored to a place on the supreme bench."

Robinson, who had been Democratic leader since 1922, was personally in charge of the administration's two major legislative campaigns to enact President Roosevelt's bills to reorganize the courts

REDUCE PLANES IN SEARCH FOR AMELIA

By The Associated Press.
HONOLULU, July 14.—Naval authorities directing a vast aerial search along the equator for Amelia Earhart and her navigator, missing 12 days, reduced the number of searching planes today and indicated the hunt would be ended Saturday.

Fliers of the aircraft carrier Lexington awaited passing of a tropical storm today before resuming their "last chance" search for the aviatrix and Frederick J. Noonan, who disappeared on a flight from New Guinea to tiny Howland Island on July 2.

INQUEST IN THE DEATH OF TEN IN STRIKE BATTLE

Coroner Summons Over Hundred Witnesses In Fatal Riot Inquiry

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 14.—Coroner Frank J. Walsh today summoned more than 100 witnesses for an inquest into the deaths of 10 persons in Chicago's Memorial day steel strike battle.

The inquiry came a day after the last of the major strike bound plants resumed operations.

A six-man coroner's jury had the task of determining whether any one should be criminally responsible for the fatalities in a clash between 200 policemen and some 1,500 strike demonstrators near the Republic steel corporation's south Chicago plant.

The CIO chieftain, John L. Lewis, and his aides of the steel workers organizing committee have said "the Chicago police murdered our people."

Chicago's police commissioner, James P. Allman and his subordinates have contended policemen used guns in "self defense" after they were assaulted with rocks and other missiles.

Other labor points disclosed: JOHNSTOWN, Pa.—Citizens' anti-strike committee terms John L. Lewis' steel workers organizing committee "irresponsible" in reply to CIO charge that Bethlehem Steel corporation "sponsored and financed" citizens' group.

CONNELSVILLE, Pa.—Non-striking miners threaten to "take matters into their own hands" to return to two strike-closed Republic Steel Corp. mines.

COLUMBUS, O.—Federal judge hears testimony in CIO suit to enjoin the state from using national guardsmen in Ohio's strike affected areas.

NEW YORK.—Court order prohibits industrial union of Marine and Shipyard Workers of America in Brooklyn from striking and picketing; counsel for CIO-affiliated union, which called strike in metropolitan area, assails order as "vicious strike breaking maneuver."

DECATUR, Ill.—Union typographical employees barred from daily newspaper plant by pickets in American newspaper guild strike.

MUCH COOLER THAN JULY A YEAR AGO
With the temperature today in the upper "eighties" Pettis counties are experiencing more comfortable weather than a year ago when the thermometer reading showed 110 degrees above zero on the corresponding date July 14.

On June 15, 1936, was the hottest day of the past year it being 114 degrees in mid-afternoon. Temperatures for the remainder of the month were from 100 to 119 degrees for the most part.

SOME FORECAST COURT BILL WILL BE ABANDONED

Death of Senator Robinson Serious Blow To Program

PITTMAN EXPECTS FIGHT BE RENEWED

Adjournment To Give Break To Legislative "Log Jam"

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—Senate leaders expressed agreement today the death of Administration Leader Robinson was a "serious blow" to the Roosevelt court bill and some forecast it would be abandoned.

While discussion of the court bill's prospects was off the record, pending word from President Roosevelt and burial of Senator Robinson, there was widespread talk among senators of dropping the measure, cleaning up the legislative program as quickly as possible and adjourning.

At the white house, however, Chairman Pittman (D-Ne.) of the senate foreign relations committee, expressed the belief that the fight over the bill would be resumed in four or five days.

He was at the executive mansion for a luncheon with the president. "After the senate pays its respects to Senator Robinson, a period of four or five days," he said, "I believe the court fight will go on."

Senator Berry (R-Tenn) first to see President Roosevelt after Robinson's death told newsmen he believed the loss of the leader would effect no change in the vote on the bill.

In adjourning today out of respect for Robinson, the senate broke up the parliamentary strategy he had devised to overcome what he considered a filibuster against the bill.

Instead of adjourning Robinson has recessed the senate daily since the court fight started so as to run the entire debate into a single day and limit the number of speeches that could be made upon it.

The adjournment meant that the legislative log-jam back of the court bill could be broken. When the senate resumes work, it will begin a new legislative day.

This will permit introduction of the ever-normal granary bill, and consideration of pending conference reports without interruption of the court debate if it is decided to go on with that discussion.

But Senator Borah (R-Idaho) one of the opposition's most trusted strategists, predicted that congress might adjourn within two weeks if the court controversy is dropped.

He suggested that it was "unlikely" the senate would take up such controversial matters as the farm bill, wage-and-hour legislation, or governmental reorganization this late in the session.

An effort to over-ride the president's veto of a bill extending low interest rates on federal land bank loans, Borah said, may be the next major issue—and perhaps the last.

The Arkansas senator was directing the drive to push the compromise measure through the senate and was the principal author of the substitute. He had been given a free hand by President Roosevelt.

The immediate effect of Robinson's death was to interrupt the furious debate.

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont), after expressing regret at the "untimely passing" of a political and personal friend, predicted the court controversy might be terminated speedily as a result of the leader's death.

"I beseech the president to drop this court fight lest he appear to fight against God."

The last part of the remark of the opposition leader to the court reorganization bill was a quotation from the Old Testament.

"If it had not been for this court fight," Wheeler continued, "Joe Robinson would be alive today."

Possible Successors
All three of the Democrats most prominently mentioned to succeed Robinson as senate leader—Senators Harrison of Mississippi, Barkley of Kentucky and Byrnes of South Carolina—have come out for the court measure but none of them participated in its drafting or has been in very close contact with the negotiations to rally support for it.

Speculation arose in some quarters that President Roosevelt might withdraw his demand for the legislation and content himself, perhaps with a constitutional amendment for compulsory retirement of judges. Administration spokesmen gave no hint, however, of the course to be followed.

Robinson's death came within a few hours of another major blow to the court bill—a vigorous declaration of opposition from Representative Summers (D-Tex), chairman of the powerful House judiciary committee.

Summers surprised his colleagues

Voluntary Relief Pledges For Collins' Family Benefit Today $311.50

The services of our city employees who risk their lives in the performance of duty are appreciated by the people of Sedalia, as is evidenced by the contributions so far received in the voluntary benefit fund being raised for the widow and five children of the late W. J. Collins, city fireman, which amounts, at 2 o'clock this afternoon to $311.50. But, after all, the number of subscribers, we feel sure, is comparatively small to those who really wish to help.

We wish to again direct the attention of our readers to the fact that under our existing laws and ordinances there is no provision for compensating a widow and children of a fireman or a policeman who has lost his life in the performance of a very hazardous duty of protecting at all times, the lives and property of our people. This is not the fault of the city, for our Missouri statutes do not provide an enabling act for the city to do so. Therefore, to provide this just relief when these tragedies happen it can only be done by the present method, that of voluntary relief. We feel reasonably sure that the response so far is not the full appreciation of a community the size of Sedalia.

Everyone wants to help in a situation of this kind and probably intends to do so, but unless such desire is put into action the good intention is entirely lost. So if there are those yet that desire to aid in this very necessary fund please do so promptly that we may

READY FOR START ON THE TASK OF AIDING JOBLESS 'SOLDIER FALLEN WITH HIS FACE TO THE BATTLE'

Approval By Board In President, Senators and Others Comment on Robinson Death

By The Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 14.—Administrators of Missouri's new unemployment compensation law were ready today to begin the task of aiding the jobless, following approval late yesterday of the state's set-up by the social security board in Washington.

Approval was announced by Frank Bane, executive director of the federal board, in a telegram sent to Governor Lloyd C. Stark's office.

Andrew J. Murphy, chairman of the state commission, said Missouri officials would go to the national capital soon to discuss the organization of the department here with federal officials. The state's budget, as well as other details, must be approved by the social security board.

For the next two years the commission's chief task will be to keep records on payment of the federal payroll tax by the various employers of Missouri.

Payment of benefits under the act will not start until June, 1939, two years after the law has been in effect.

The social security board has estimated that 532,000 workers in Missouri will be covered by the unemployment insurance. Benefits will range from about $5 to $15 a week for 12 weeks if they are thrown out of employment.

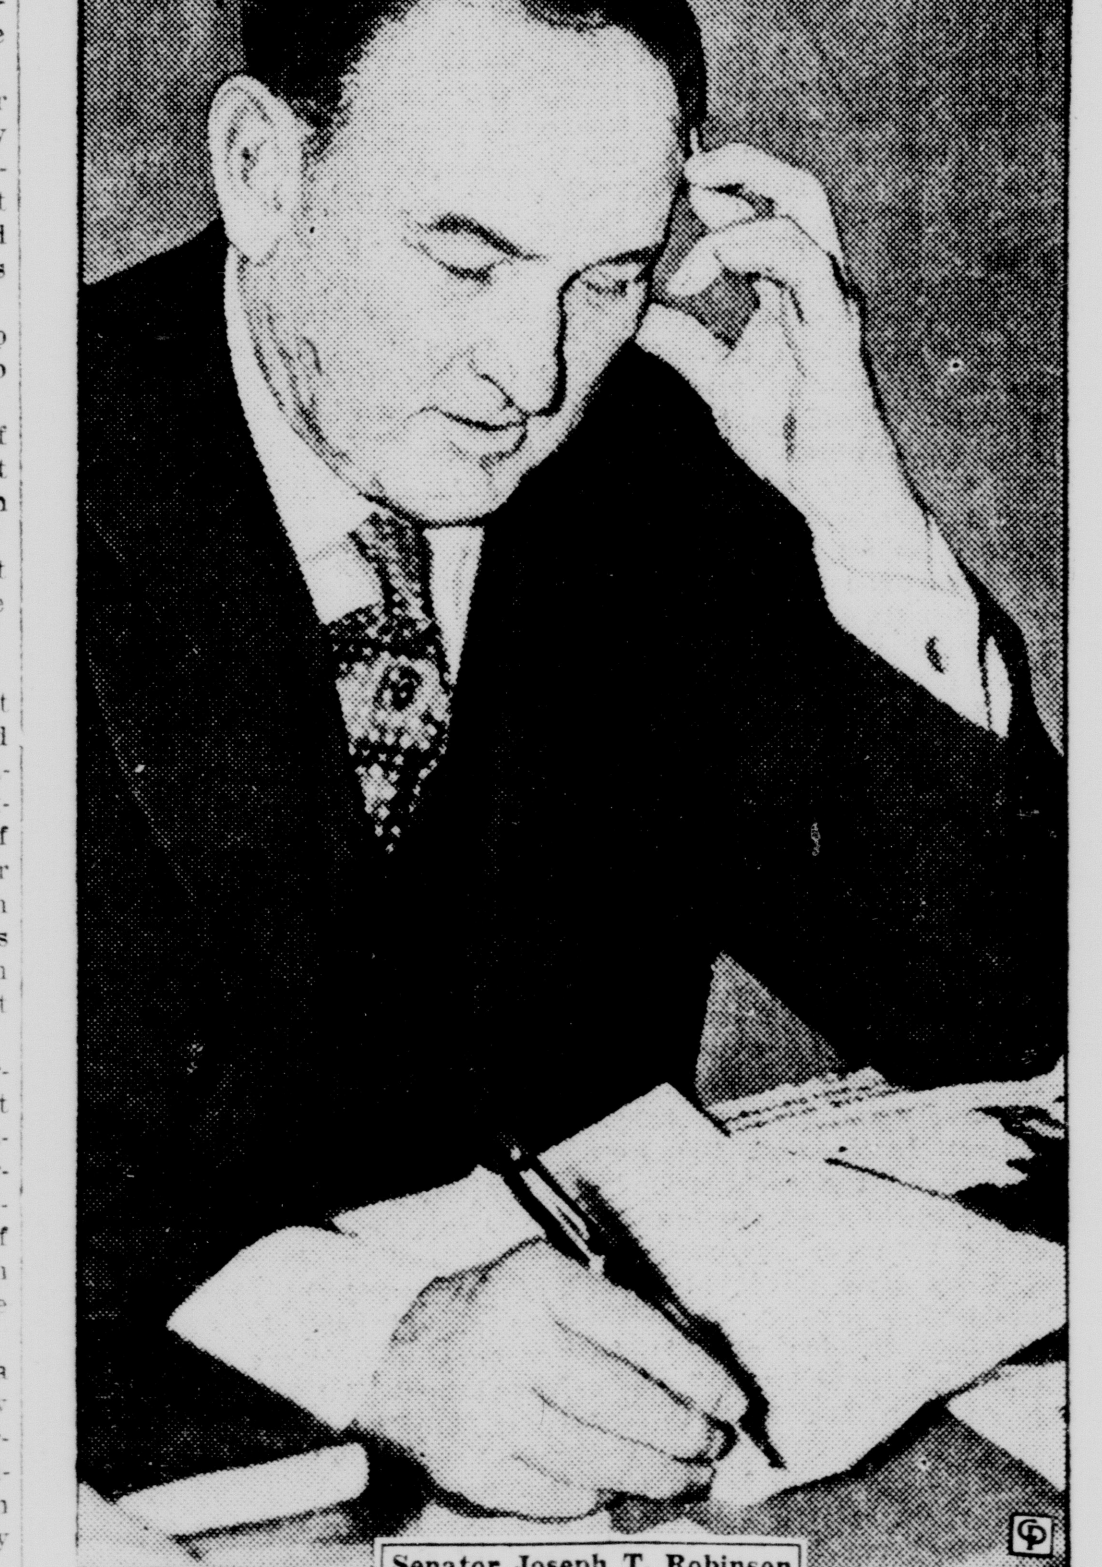

The federal government will probably collect between $11,000,000 and $12,000,000 from Missouri employers this year under the 2 per cent payroll tax. Ninety per cent of this fund will be available to pay benefits, and the remainder will be used to administer the law.

The social security board approved the Missouri law after it had been advised the emergency clause on the act—which made the law effective when the governor signed the bill—had been held valid by the attorney general's department.

REWARD FOR TYPEWRITER RETURN AND ARREST
A late model Underwood typewriter was taken from the news rooms of the Democrat and Capital offices some time between 1:30 and 3 o'clock this morning.

W. P. Stanley, publisher of the Democrat and Capital, reported the loss to police headquarters, the sheriff and constable, and has offered a reward of $25 for information leading to the return of the machine and to the arrest of the guilty party, or parties.

CHINESE TO NOT ABANDON THEIR HOPES OF PEACE

Massive Military Preparations Go Forward In Resistance

DEMAND FOR THE JAPS TO EVACUATE

Latest Advances Indicate a Peaceful Solution May Be Reached

By The Associated Press.

PEIPING, July 14.—Japanese and Chinese alike began evacuation of this ancient city today amid predictions and fears that hostilities between Japanese and Chinese troops would be resumed.

Peace negotiations apparently had failed, despite a Japanese report that such deliberations were under way with local authorities of Hopei and Chahar provinces.

Chinese and foreign observers expressed belief that today's lack of conflict was but a lull before more bitter military activity.

Meantime Sir Hughie Knatchbull-Huggesson, British ambassador to China, hurriedly departed from Shanghai aboard H. M. S. Westcott for Nanking.

No official explanation of his trip was given, but it was believed the ambassador carried to Nanking authorities a British representation aimed to forestall heightening of the Sino-Japanese crisis while the ambassador to Japan took similar action at Tokyo.

NANKING, China, July 14.—China's national government hastened troops to concentration points today, avowedly determined to resist what Chinese believe is a Japanese effort to dominate the northern provinces of Hopei and Chahar.

Signs of massive military preparations were evident in the capital itself. The Chungshan Memorial road which traverses the heart of Nanking was loaded with a variety of military and mechanical equipment.

Hopes for peace will not be abandoned, a spokesman said, until the last extremity.

But a government official asserted: "Nanking cannot and will not remain idle to see another slice of Chinese territory fall into alien hands without a struggle."

Demand For Evacuation
TOKYO, July 14.—(AP)—China demanded today that Japan end the tense North China crisis by evacuating her troops from the battle area west of Peiping and halting mass movements of reinforcements to the front. The Japanese government

BOY ON OUTING DROWNS IN LAKE

By The Associated Press.
VERMILION, Mo., July 14.—The body of Edgar Lee Woodward, 11, who drowned in Gravois creek when he slipped away from a Y. M. C. A. camp yesterday for a lone fishing excursion, was returned to his home in Kansas City today.

The boy was the son of Mrs. Vivian Woodward, 3500 Jefferson street.

Officials at Camp Gravois, five miles southeast of here, said the boy was missed a few hours after his arrival at the camp for an outing, and the body was recovered about 8 p. m. after a fishing pole was found on a dam across the creek.

MURDER CHARGE PLACED AGAINST FORMER PASTOR

Rev. C. E. Newton Accused In Death of Mrs. Dennis Kelly

PARIS, Mo., July 14.—A warrant charging Rev. C. E. Newton, 51-year-old former pastor of the Paris Baptist church, with first degree murder in connection with the disappearance and death of Mrs. Dennis Kelly, 45, a member of his congregation, was issued today by authorities at Pittsfield, Ill., near where the slaying is believed to have taken place. Tom Proctor, prosecuting attorney here said.

Proctor said Newton was being held in a Pittsfield jail. He was rushed away from Paris before daylight today, the prosecutor said, after reports were received that there was high feeling among townspeople over the death of Mrs. Kelly, mother of two sons and daughter of a former county judge.

Proctor said the startling discovery of "a freshly dug hole resembling a grave" was made in the Newton garage today. He said "the hole apparently was intended for a grave." Proctor added that four loaded revolvers were found at the Newton residence here.

PARIS, Mo., July 14.—Sheriff Russell Wilkes of Monroe county said today Rev. C. E. Newton, 51-year-old former pastor of the Paris Baptist church, was arrested today for questioning in connection with the disappearance and strange death of Mrs. Dennis Kelly, 45, a prominent church worker.

Mrs. Kelly's body was recovered from the Mississippi river near Louisiana, Mo., late yesterday. Rev. Newton was spirited away to a jail outside the county. Sheriff Wilkes said and he will be turned over to Sheriff A. W. Johnson of Pike county, Ill., where he said it is believed Mrs. Kelly was slain early Tuesday.

Denies Any Connection
The minister denied any connection with the death of his close friend of years standing, the sheriff stated. Wilkes said he was questioned several hours and still maintained he was at his residence, one block from the Kelly home, throughout Monday night and Tuesday morning.

Sheriff Wilkes disclosed that his deputies had examined the minister's automobile and reported "they found what appeared to be blood stains under a floor mat." The car had recently been washed, the sheriff said.

Coroner Phillip Turpin of Pike county was to conduct an inquest at Louisiana today. Identification of the woman's body taken from the Mississippi yesterday as that of Mrs. Kelly was made last night by a brother-in-law, Charles Kelly of Hannibal. The body was taken to Hannibal.

The Rev. Newton resigned his pastorate here last year. Since then he has been preaching at small churches in other counties but continued to make his home here. He is the father of three grown children.

The sheriff said "apparently Mrs. Kelly was ready to leave her husband when she was slain." She left a 14-page note giving detailed instructions for the education of her 12-year-old son, Francis, Wilkes continued. Full contents of the note were not disclosed.

The sheriff said Mrs. Kelly recently had withdrawn "about $1,900 from the Paris Savings bank." He expressed the opinion she was slain by someone who knew she carried the large sum of cash.

Frank C. Haley, Louisiana undertaker to whose establishment Mrs. Kelly's body first was taken, said the woman apparently had been beaten on the head. He said he found three cuts on the scalp.

A search for Mrs. Kelly was spurred a few hours after her husband, a rural mail carrier, reported her missing. Authorities found a small pool of blood on the Mark Twain bridge over the Mississippi river at Hannibal. Another larger pool and Mrs. Kelly's purse were discovered 1½ miles east of the bridge on the Illinois side of the river. When her body was recovered cancelled checks drawn on the Paris Savings bank and signed by Mrs. Kelly and her sister, Mrs. Ola Combs, were found in her clothing.

Relatives at Paris said the two women recently sold a piece of property there. Sheriff Wilkes said he had been informed Mrs. Kelly recently deposited $2,000 in the bank supposedly received from the sale of the property.

LAND TWENTY-FIVE MILES FROM GOAL THIS MORNING

Plane Down In Pasture Near San Jacinto Due To Gas Tank Leak

COVERED DISTANCE OF NEAR 6,700 MILES

Guard Established About Plane After Ranchers Rushed To Scene

SAN JACINTO, Calif., July 14.—Three daring Soviet airmen landed in a pasture three miles west of here early today with a new long distance record established in an epochal flight across the North Pole from Moscow.

Beast by fog and a leaky gasoline tank, the trio landed at 8:27 a. m. C. S. T., after covering nearly 6,700 miles in slightly more than 62 hours in the air.

The three—Pilot Mikhail Gromov, Co-Pilot Andrei Yumoshoff and Navigator Sergei Danilin—said they had flown as far down the Pacific coast as San Diego but were blocked by fog and retraced their course toward March Field, an army base only 25 miles from this mountain community.

The mountain range confusing the Soviet trio landed between San Diego and March Field was confusing to them, and they did not know just where they were when the gasoline tank sprang a leak.

The big ant type monoplane, powered by a single motor, was brought down safely when the pasture was sighted. Several ranchers saw the landing.

They managed by signs to indicate that they did not have detailed maps of the location of March Field. A guard of local officers was organized about the plane to preserve intact particularly the sealed barograph necessary to establish their record officially.

Mayor Victor H. Strah flew a single seater plane here from March Field and an automobile was arranged to take the three to the army base.

The Soviet trio left Moscow on Monday (6:22 p. m. CST Sunday). They passed over Rudolf island, the last point of land between them and the North Pole, at 1:01 p. m. Monday, then battled snow and cyclonic winds before reaching the pole at 6:14 p. m., a little less than a day from Moscow.

On this phase of the flight the red winged monoplane was kept at an altitude of 8,000 feet.

Favorable winds kept the plane ahead of schedule, and last night it became definitely known the objective would be "beyond Oakland." As originally announced by the Kremlin, the flight was to be from Moscow to San Francisco or beyond.

CRASHING INTO TRAINS

Fourteen hundred and thirty-two automobiles crashed into the sides of trains in 1936 and 33 per cent of the accidents occurred at highway-railroad grade crossings protected by watchmen or by safety devices.

Sunday, says a report by the bureau of statistics of the interstate commerce commission, proved to be the day of greatest frequency for accidents of this type. In 290 instances, or 21 per cent of the total, trains were standing still, while in 1,126 instances, or 79 per cent, trains were moving.

Freight trains were involved in 890 accidents, passenger trains in 256 accidents and yard movements in 278 accidents. In 125 instances the drivers of the automobiles were intoxicated and in fourteen they were asleep. A majority of the accidents occurred in urban areas.

For the first two months of this year, 1937, accidents at grade crossings have increased and so have the number of persons killed and injured in these wrecks. The supreme court of the United States has made plain that in such cases drivers are at fault for failing to assure that their way was clear.

Even on highways which are strange to him, the alert driver is aware when he is approaching a railroad, for the signs are ample. If and when drivers of automotive vehicles come to grief at grade crossings there is prima facie evidence of recklessness.

MOST POIGNANT OF TRAGEDIES

From New York Times.

All the terror and cruelty of modern war are summed up in the panic of the Basque children on their first day in England when a fleet of airplanes flew over their temporary camp in the flowery fields of Hampshire. To these little exiles from Spain the hum of airplanes presages only bombardment and a rain of shells. To children who have known war the wings that give man mastery of the skies are but the wings of death.

The 3,800 children who landed at Southampton brought with them to England, writes a correspondent, the tragedy of Spain. They were dressed in their best and carried their precious possessions in bundles packed carefully by mothers who may never see their little ones again. The exiles put up a gallant front. They were gay and curious, as children are in new surroundings, but a question brought into their eyes the horror of the sights they have seen. Under medical examination they were found to be thin, undernourished, highly strung, bewildered and homesick.

Not to England only but to every home in the world these young exiles bring the tragedy of their country. Niobe weeping for her children is not so piteous as these children weeping for their mothers, torn from their people and their native land to eat white bread in a stranger's house. In our time we have seen many expulsions and dispersals of peoples—the heira of the Greeks from Asia Minor, the march of the Serbs over the mountain to the sea, the flight of the refugees from the devastated areas of France, the endless wandering of the Assyrians in search of a country, the exile of the Jews from Germany. In the twentieth century man's humanity to man has reached proportions truly epic.

Of these modern tragedies the flight of the innocents from Spain is the most poignant. That we have reached a point of progress where children are the targets of the enemy in war gives this age of speed and science a dark distinction among the dark ages. But that a people should slaughter its own children, or allow them to be moved down by foreign mercenaries—this out-herods Herod and brings horror to a climax. The Basque children in exile serve to underline the lot of the children who have not the good luck to be separated from their families and shipped to safety. And the fate of the Spanish children who must stay at home is a heartbreaking reminder of the fate of all children if the air fleets multiplying everywhere are ever used.

PASSPORT TO CULTURE

From Christian Science Monitor.

In connection with a recent large sale of Victorian books, a writer in the Times of London recalls a saying of Lord Morley to the effect that the people of Victorian England could be divided into those who kept a Tennyson on their shelves and those who did not.

There is certainly a modicum of truth in the epigram—although a glance at the secondhand bookshops today might lead one to suppose that those who didn't keep him on their shelves had him in their pockets. To display your Tennyson, then, to the stranger within your gates was to offer him a guarantee, recognized by everyone who was anyone, of your cultural integrity. The passage of time has, alas, deprived us of this easily applied cachet; for where is the author now whose name, unsupported, will thus serve as passport for us?

Shakespeare, in solitary grandeur, will hardly help us with the devoted followers of Bernard Shaw, who has long since put Shakespeare in his place. And even Mr. Shaw, after his effort to guide the Intelligent Woman, is suspect in some quarters. If we fly the banner of Kipling there will be those who will mark only its imperial purple, and eye us askance. H. G. Wells is so delightfully easy to read that the intellectuals might refuse him as a serious criterion.

The rule did not, however, apply with the Victorians, only to Tennyson and culture in a narrow literary sense. To be a gentleman "sans reproche" it was no less essential to keep a retinue of Standard Authors, than it was to keep a well-appointed stable. One cannot seriously regret the passing of such an outlook; and one suspects that the ubiquitous Tennyson often knew the indignity of uncut pages. At present, thought we may not, perhaps, muster so many classic names on our shelves, we have not been pressed into collecting our books by any social convention, but have engaged with them more or less voluntarily—and one volunteer is worth three pressed men.

COURTESY OF THE ROAD

Discourteous drivers are the greatest cause of highway fatalities, is the belief of a large number of persons who have studied the staggering and mounting figures of traffic tolls. Under this heading, the Hannibal Courier-Post says, come many of the offenses of the road, traceable to lack of consideration of rights of others.

Ralph de Palma, pioneer automobile racer and long-time authority on driving, is one of the adherents to this belief. He notes that highways and motor cars have been bettered constantly, leaving one major element—the driver himself. Then he advances this safe driving formula:

1. Be courteous.
2. Always keep your automobile under complete control.
3. Obey traffic laws.
4. Keep automobile in perfect mechanical condition.

It is only natural that one, like de Palma, who spent years in competition with the fastest drivers of the world and was himself one of the greatest, would not be willing to include speed among the major highway ills. He insists that he "hasn't much faith" in attacks made on high driving speeds. Of course, if four admonitions listed above were completely adhered to by all drivers the danger of fast driving would be greatly diminished. In fact, if drivers always kept their cars "under complete control" their speed would be called unsafe.

One should study the formula of this famous driver and keep it in mind when on the road. One hundred per cent observance of the four rules would just about eliminate the present sickening casualty lists. It also would drastically change as it is practiced today.

The first essential of civilized society is law and order. The second is to do something when you've got 'em.

CHAPTER 50

"YOU SAY the $1,500,000 was to go to mother only if I weren't alive?" Jacqueline asked Charles. "Yes, of course." She was thoughtful for a few moments, and then went on: "As soon as I saw that copy of the will I understood everything—the pretty plot to get me to sign it all away and marry Jim Asson. I never could understand why Colonel Lutman was so desperately anxious for the marriage to come off, but I understood then I suppose he was to have a share in the spoils."

"Yes, and so was I, Jacqueline." She took no notice of that confession. "And that's why," she continued, "when I turned Jim Asson down, the Colonel so suddenly fell in love with me. He did, you know, Charles. He even asked me to marry him."

"Lutman's a swine," said the lawyer tersely. "He doesn't make love very nicely, if that's what you mean. He..." She made a quick gesture. "And then I telephoned to you, Charles. You asked me to call you flat, and on my way somebody put me—the chloroform or something—and when I woke up I was on a barge on the river with some people called Joplin."

Charles nodded. "You don't seem a bit surprised, Charles."

"I'm not." "I couldn't at first understand why Colonel Lutman had done it," he said. "Kidnaping is a pretty risky game, and it struck me that to make it worth while he must have something really big in view. And then I suddenly realized. I remembered what the will said—that if I wasn't alive the money was to go to my mother. If I didn't live, Charles—that's the point. I thought I saw Lutman's game. I wouldn't marry Jim, and I wouldn't marry Lutman, and his only chance of laying hands on the money was to get rid of me and marry my mother. I was certain that was what he had in mind."

"I was afraid it was." "And so it was, Charles. I got away from the barge—jumped for it and swam. There was a dreadful current and I thought I was done for; and then Lutman came along in his boat and I clung on and tried to get on board. But when he saw who it was he kicked my hands off the side and started up the engine and went off."

"Jacqueline! The swine! My God! If I ever get my hands on Lutman's throat..." "Don't get excited, Charles. The police found me floating about and fished me out. As soon as they'd let me go from the hospital I dashed home. Lutman was there. He had just asked mother to marry him and she had promised to do so."

"You mean that your mother has actually promised?" "She would," Charles. Lutman had offered to make her an allowance of $5,000 a year, of her own, and mother would promise anything to anybody to get that, poor darling! I tried to tell her a few things about Lutman, but she wouldn't listen, and it all ended up by her ordering me out and forbidding me ever to go back. And here I am. That's the whole story as I've pieced it together, Charles. Is it all correct?"

"No, Jacqueline. Nearly, but not quite." "What's wrong with it?"

"For one thing, Lutman didn't kidnap you."

"If you're suggesting that I've imagined it all..." "I'm not. I'm just saying that when you blame Lutman for the kidnaping you're wrong; he didn't do it. I know—because I did it myself."

"You?" gasped Jacqueline. "At least I was responsible for it," continued the lawyer. "Captain Allwright actually did the job for me. He's very obliging about that sort of thing."

Jacqueline regarded him fixedly. "Charles, you're lying."

"That's why I told you on the telephone that I couldn't see you until 8 o'clock in the evening, Jacqueline. I wanted time to get hold of Allwright and fix it up."

The girl shook her head. "I don't know why you're doing it, Charles, but you're lying. I know you're lying, and I'll tell you why I know. Whoever did the kidnaping offered Joplin 500 pounds if he'd be kind enough to do me in and pitch what was left of me in the overboard. Joplin told me so himself."

"In that case," smiled Charles. "Joplin exceeded his duty. I suppose you were proving a bit of a handful, and he wanted to scare you into behaving yourself properly. All I offered him was five pounds a week, to take care of you. Listen, Jacqueline. I'm telling you the truth now. I did kidnap you. I couldn't think of any other means of making sure that Lutman wouldn't find you. I knew what was in his mind. He hadn't actually said as much, but he had let me see that if he couldn't get you to marry Jim Asson and couldn't get you to marry me, he meant to get the money in the other way open to him—by getting rid of you and marrying your mother. I knew he was capable of doing it. They've never been able to get the evidence to arrest him, but I happen to know that the police believe he's guilty of two murders which have never been solved, and I dare risk it. The only safe way was to hold you somewhere and keep you there until things had settled themselves out. As a matter of fact, I went to the barge late in the evening and was scared out of my life when I found you'd disappeared. I was afraid Lutman had somehow managed to get you."

"He did his best, Charles. And when I couldn't be found, didn't he suspect?"

"I didn't give him the chance," smiled Charles. "I went for him before he had a chance to go for me. I accused him of having kidnaped you, and demanded to know where you were. I threatened to go to the police if he didn't tell me. He swallowed it all and had no idea that I knew where you were and was responsible for putting you there. He tried to give me the impression that he had hidden you somewhere himself so that I shouldn't get at you and—tell you things. Now do you believe me?"

"All right, Charles. I believe you. But the next time you think of boarding me out you might find someone a bit more attractive than the Joplin. And now what? There's mother, Charles. We must do something. She has promised to marry Lutman."

"There's nothing to be done tonight, anyway," said Stuckey. "She can't marry Lutman until tomorrow, and she's not likely to marry him at all. Lutman will see to that. Your refusing to sink and turning up again will upset his wedding plans, and I'm afraid your mother is going to have a disappointment. But she had better be disappointed that way than by marrying a blackguard like Lutman."

The telephone bell rang noisily, and Charles turned and picked up the receiver.

"Hello! Yes, Charles Stuckey speaking."

He clapped a hand over the mouthpiece and glanced across at Jacqueline. "Lutman," he said, and uncovered the mouthpiece. "Yes, I shall be here all right. All right, but not for an hour, Lutman. I'm working on a case. Very well—12 o'clock. I shall be finished by then. Goodbye."

He replaced the receiver. "He's coming to see me—at 12 o'clock. That's because of you, Jacqueline. He has realized that the game's up as far as marrying your mother is concerned, and he's coming along with some fresh scheme."

"In that case, I'd better clear out."

"You can't go home, and you're not fit to go anywhere. You're all in. The best thing you can do is to stay here."

"But if Lutman's coming here..." "There's a room upstairs," said Charles. "There's a bed of sorts. I sometimes sleep there when I'm late at the office. It's a bit rough and ready, but you can get some rest, and I shall want you here in the morning. We shall have to get hold of your mother and break the news to her, and you'd better be here. I'll show you, shall I?" He led the way up the winding staircase and into the room. "It's not much of a place," he began.

"There's a bed that looks something like a bed, Charles," smiled the girl, "and in 10 seconds I shall be asleep. Good night, Charles."

"Listen, Jacqueline," said Stuckey. "I shall be nervous if I go out for a bit. I want to see Allwright. His boat is berthed close by and I shan't be gone for more than half an hour. I'll lock the office door and you'll be perfectly safe."

"Righto, Charles."

"I'll give a knock on the door to let you know when I'm back."

She nodded. "But I probably shan't hear you."

Accordingly, Charles, when he returned from his visit to Captain Allwright, tiptoed up the stairs and gave the softest tap on Jacqueline's door—a tap so soft that it could not have wakened even the lightest sleeper. Yet instantly came her voice.

"That you, Charles?"

"All O. K., Jacqueline?"

"Quite, thanks. Open the door, please, Charles; it isn't locked."

Charles opened the door and stood in the doorway.

"Jacqueline?"

"There's something I want to ask you."

"Well?"

There was a pause. Then: "You did know, Charles, didn't you? About Lutman's pretty little plot, I mean."

Charles was suddenly very grateful for the darkness.

"Yes, Jacqueline. I knew all about it."

"And you were in it, too?"

"Yes."

"Just how far, Charles?"

"Right up to my neck."

"Again there was a silence before the girl asked:

"Why?"

to patch up a peace between the CIO and its parent A. F. of L. Just a week before the executive council of the federation expelled the insurgents, President Bill Green approached Lewis with a proposal that they come to terms. They were to divide the industrial field between them.

Lewis said he was willing but asked Green if his offer included the steel industry, which the CIO was then beginning to invade. Green's reply was: "I couldn't do that, John."

That was the end of the parley. Since then the CIO has invaded many fields occupied or claimed by A. F. of L. craft unions. The only way there can be peace is for the latter or the CIO to retire—and neither has any intention of doing that. It's a life or death struggle now.

The CIO has gone too far to quit, and the Federationists, who claim prior rights, refuse to do so.

Merry-Go-Round

Roger Baldwin, director of the Civil Liberties Union and ardent fighter for the freedom of speech, has been denied a visa by the Soviet government to enter Russia. He was rated a Trotsky sympathizer. One of the most amusing books giving insight on politicians and miscellaneous bits of news is written by Russell M. Arundel, secretary to staid former Senator Jesse H. Metcalf of Rhode Island. The book, "Everybody's Pillbox," shows what the world's statesmen scribble on the tablecloths, or pads of paper, when they are thinking of something else. Roosevelt draws fishes and boats.

The supreme court fight has been bitter, but in some strange quarters it has erased bitterness. For years Frank Kent of the Baltimore Sun has been attacking Senator Wheeler of Montana. Kent's favorite name for Wheeler was "breast beater." But now they are to be seen dining with each other—together with Alice Longworth, also an old critic of Wheeler's.

TREATING DISORDERS OF MIND

Last week I saw the desk on which Jonathan Swift wrote "Gulliver's Travels." It is in Dublin, housed in the hospital which Swift founded and to which he gave all his wealth when he died.

He wanted to found a hospital for the treatment of mental diseases because he was impressed with the inhuman way the insane were handled in his day. Ironically, his own mind gave way and he was an inmate, and I think, died in the hospital he founded.

The superintendent of Swift's, Dr. Richard Leeper, showed me over the hospital, which still is in use for mental patients. Indeed, it is the best, most modern and best equipped hospital of its kind in Ireland. Dr. Leeper is a great Swift enthusiast, and has made a wonderful collection of relics of the stormy dean of St. Patrick's. He has also made a collection of the instruments used in the care of insane patients in the old days. I saw the chains and rings which were used to bind their legs. Patients were chained to the wall of a dungeon often for months. Another device used to quiet them was to put them in a revolving chair and spin them around until they were dizzy and vomited. The poor things! One of the brightest spots in the annals of medicine is the modern humane treatment of these unfortunates.

In Swift's hospital today you are taken to comfortable, well-furnished rooms. They are made to look homelike; there is no suggestion of restraint or the atmosphere of a cell. These rooms lead into large sitting rooms where the patients may congregate and talk, or play games together. Outside are pretty gardens where they may walk at will, and which give no impression of an institution.

Hot Bath Quieting
If the patient is disturbed he is quieted by gentle means—one of which is a prolonged stay in a hot bath. This has been found to be a very effective method of calming people who are delirious or maniacal.

All methods of treatment have a place in such an institution—there are rooms for massage, and for electrical treatments by diathermy applied to sore joints or muscles. Also apparatus for inducing artificial fever, which is playing such an increasingly large part in the treatment of these maladies.

Mental or psychological treatment of all kinds is used. The methods of Freud are being accorded less and less prominence. My observations can be depended upon. But such psychological relief as comes from occupational treatment form a department in this institution. There is great mental calm in learning to weave a basket or paint a picture. And an innovation I have never seen in a hospital of this kind, I saw in Dublin—they have installed a moving picture theater and give shows three nights a week.

Mrs. Milton Honored
The annual Temple Beth El Sisterhood meeting and luncheon was held at the Hotel Bothwell at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The purpose of the meeting was to give the report of the year's work and for the installation of senior officers, also complimentary to Mrs. Harry Milton, who is moving to St. Louis where she and her family will reside. About thirty-five of the members were present. The following officers were installed by Rabbi Adolph Feinberg:

President, Mrs. Sam Milton.
Vice president, Mrs. Irving Searles.

Secretary, Mrs. Harry Kanter.
Treasurer, Mrs. Ida Dolgoff.
The year's report was given by Mrs. Harry Kanter followed by a farewell talk by Mrs. Milton and Mrs. Sylvain Kahn. At this time Mrs. Milton was presented with a very lovely gift.

Following the luncheon and the formal installation, Mrs. Harry Walch gave a book review on one of James Hilton's late successes, "We Are Not Alone," which was enjoyed by all the guests and members.

The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Sam Milton, president.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson Dies Suddenly in his Apartment

and the executive departments. His colleagues generally had expected his appointment to the supreme court to fill the vacancy created by the retirement of Justice Van Devanter.

Although Robinson's health had not been quite as good as in former years, his sudden death has a tremendous shock to his senatorial colleagues and all of official Washington.

The Democratic leader had been working with terrific energy during recent weeks in an effort to devise a compromise court bill for which he could obtain senate approval. The substitute measure now under debate was drafted under his direction.

He also had given close personal attention to the government reorganization program. Two or three weeks ago he personally introduced a compromise bill to carry out the chief executive's reorganization program and had called his committee to begin work on it today.

Friends Were Disturbed
Some of the Arkansas senator's closest friends, however, had been disturbed by his physical condition.

He had missed several days from the senate during recent weeks due to the strain on his physique.

After attending a strategy conference with his chief lieutenants on the court bill yesterday morning, Robinson returned to his home instead of attending the senate session because he did not feel up to par. There was no indication, however, that his illness was serious.

Robinson's home, where he was found dead today, is directly across the capital plaza from the senate wing of the capitol. He was temporarily living alone as Mrs. Robinson had gone home to Little Rock, Arkansas.

Speculate on Successor
The sudden death of Robinson gave rise immediately to speculation over his successor as Democratic leader. When talk of his possible appointment to the supreme court began, three major possibilities were mentioned for leader—Senator Byrnes of South Carolina, Harrison of Mississippi and Barkley of Kentucky.

Robinson, for the past 15 years Democratic leader in the senate, has been one of the outstanding political figures in Washington.

After attending the University of Arkansas and the Virginia law school, Robinson began reading law in a small lawyer's office back in 1892. Two years later, he was elected to the general assembly of his home state.

While serving in the legislature, Robinson continued to practice law, and has, off and on, since. But public office became his chief career when he was elected to congress in 1902, during the administration of President Theodore Roosevelt.

After serving in the house 10 years, Robinson retired to become governor of Arkansas. He only stayed in the governor's office a few months, however, because a vacancy appeared in the senate and he was quickly chosen to fill it.

Robinson was serving only his second term in the senate when he became the recognized leader of the opposition to ratification of the Washington arms treaty. This projected him into position to be chosen Democratic leader in 1922 when Oscar Underwood, of Alabama, retired from that post.

Legislative Chieftain
When the Democrats gained control of the senate along with the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Robinson became majority leader. As such, he has been the New Deal's legislative chieftain, and steered through congress the mass of new laws initiated by President Roosevelt's administration.

Even before he became senate leader, Robinson had become recognized nationally in the Democratic party. He was chairman of the party convention in 1920 which selected Roosevelt as vice presidential candidate.

Eight years later the Democratic convention chose him as vice presidential candidate to run on the ticket with Governor "Al" Smith of New York. Because of that, he had been chosen as the official administration spokesman for replies to Smith's attacks on the New Deal.

Again in 1936, when Roosevelt was renominated at Philadelphia, Robinson was the convention's permanent chairman.

In his capacity as majority leader during the New Deal, Robinson supported the administration's program from beginning to end.

Critics have contended that he was abandoning his principles in doing so, because he was a conservative at heart.

But others have contended that Robinson's career displayed a consistent streak of liberalism. From his early house days he supported child labor and anti-trust legislation as well as other measures characterized as "liberal."

He was without doubt one of the senate's most popular members, despite a violent temper which on occasion caused him difficulties. Away from work, Robinson was one of the most genial of men. He was famous for his story telling. His chief recreations were hunting and fishing.

Ran For Vice President
Political fortunes shaped themselves almost by apparent design to lift Joseph Taylor Robinson to a position of eminence in the Democratic party in the affairs of the nation.

Although a figure of importance in the senate during the better part of the decade after the World War, his peculiar availability in 1920 made him the running mate of Alfred Smith in one of the most memorable presidential elections in the nation's history.

To a large extent he shaped his own destiny, but he was, nevertheless, a man seemingly cast for the times. Religion and prohibition, over which the states below the Mason and Dixon line felt deeply, dictated that the Democratic party which had chosen Smith, a New York Catholic and wet, as its leader, to contest with Herbert Hoover, would do well to go to the south for its vice presidential nominee.

In Senator Robinson, the party found a man not only suitable to meet the strategic necessities, but also one whose ability, political courage and simple dignity held out the best hopes for success.

He carried his campaign—one of the most ambitious ever attempted by a major candidate—from coast to coast and from the northernmost states to the gulf, and while his ticket was badly beaten, Robinson returned to the senate manifestly more strongly entrenched as the leader of his own party and a power to be reckoned with by the Republicans in the determination of any policy.

His rise to prominence reads like the theme of a boy's novel from the pen of an Alger or a Standish. Within fourteen days he had been a representative in congress, governor of Arkansas and a United States senator from that state. He resigned as congressman January 14, 1913, to become governor, having been elected to that office the previous September.

Meanwhile the death of one of the senators from Arkansas had created a vacancy and the legislature promptly chose the newly installed governor to go to the senate. He was elected January 28 and took the oath March 10, 1913, thus returning to Washington almost coincidentally with Woodrow Wilson, whom he supported loyally.

Senator Robinson was born in a small settlement near Little Rock, Ark., August 26, 1872, the son of Dr. James and Matilda Jane Robinson. He obtained his early education at home and in rural schools and at the age of 17 began teaching school to earn money to enable him to continue his studies. He attended the Arkansas State University and pursued his law course at the University of Virginia. He was admitted to the bar in 1896.

On December 15, 1896, Senator Robinson married Miss Evida Gertrude Miller. They had no children.

Played Fearless Role
The circumstances that confronted the Democratic party in 1928 brought Senator Robinson to play a fearless role in the memorable campaign of that year. Leaders of the party were torn between inclination and doubt. No Catholic ever had been nominated for president by a major party. The south and the west were dry. Still, Governor Smith had become the outstanding Democrat and his nomination could scarcely be denied.

While other Democrats waited for more tangible indications that might point the way to a judicious course, Senator Robinson rose one day in the senate and took severely to task Senator Heflin of Alabama, Democrat, who, almost daily, had been assailing Governor Smith and what he termed the Roman Catholic political machine. Senator Robinson electrified his colleagues with his appeal for religious tolerance.

No one, he said, should be denied the right to ask for the highest honors in the gift of his countrymen because of the way in which he worshipped. Nor was it devotion to the Democratic principles declared by Jefferson, he asserted, to inveigh arguments contradictory to the constitutional provision which says no religious test shall be exacted of a candidate.

Such an argument coming from the party leader in the senate, a Protestant from an overwhelmingly Protestant southern state when the topic still was looked upon as political quagmire, provoked a range of interesting discussion. Some observers contended the senator by his utterance had made himself available for the presidential nomination should Governor Smith fail to muster enough votes. Others, even at that early date, declared his nomination as vice president was inevitable.

However canny may have been those predictions, Senator Robinson found the opportunity to reiterate his opinions before the Houston convention of which he was chairman. Quite unexpectedly, he reasserted the principles of religious freedom at the end of a prepared speech and his words turned the convention hall into an uproar with delegates fighting and shouting. He was nominated for vice president on the first ballot.

With the same directness that had stamped his earlier actions, Senator Robinson swung into the campaign. He submerged himself and sought rather to draw a human picture of Governor Smith to the country.

Although he was not a man to be led away by superficial indications, it is safe to say that the overwhelming defeat of Governor Smith and himself was a great disappointment to Senator Robinson. He was convinced that the south would remain Democratic and the Republican victory in four states of that section was a great surprise to him.

Rather than let his disappointment embitter him, Robinson returned to the senate to re-entrench his party there solidly and directed the path toward reconstruction. His leadership was so effective that he was able not only to hold Democrats, but also drew support from Republican independents. The formation of that coalition in spite of the great Republican victory at the polls stood as a serious threat at the outset of the Hoover administration and gave the Democratic party a position of importance entirely disproportionate with the devastating defeat it had suffered.

Senator Robinson won his spurs in leadership of his party at the 1920 Democratic National convention at San Francisco, when he served as chairman during the trying grind of 44 ballots. The record he made there played no small part in his selection three years later as the Democratic leader in the senate when Oscar W. Underwood laid down the reins.

In his legislative accomplishments the Arkansas senator was the author of many important measures. He drafted a bill which led to the reorganization of the Interstate Commerce Commission, another creating the Federal Trade Commission, and had charge of the child labor law, which subsequently was declared unconstitutional by the supreme court.

BITTER STRUGGLE FOR SHATTERING OF SIEGE LINES

Land and Air Forces of Spanish Loyalists Combine in Attack

MADRID, July 14.—General Jose Miaja's government legions were locked with insurgent troops west of Madrid today in a struggle of World War proportions to smash the insurgent siege lines around the capital.

Land and air forces combined in the government attack. An insurgent communiqué declared the backbone of the government offensive had been broken by a counter-attack at Villanueva del Pardillo.

Government losses were placed by the insurgents at 10,000. Twelve insurgent planes were reported by the government to have been downed in yesterday's fighting. Miaja's troops fortified their positions at Villanueva del Pardillo, and other divisions hammered at the Coruna highway running northwest from Madrid, the government announced.

At Salamanca Gen. Franco's headquarters said an American pilot of a Spanish government plane had been captured on the Madrid front when his plane was shot down. He was not identified.

Soviet Fliers Shatter Long Distance Record in Flight

Flight was to "confirm again the possibility of regular communications intercontinentally by way of the North Pole." It served to demonstrate further the practicability of Soviet engineered and manufactured aircraft, as first was strikingly attested by the successful Moscow to Vancouver, Wash., flight of Valeria Chkaloff, Georgi Baidukoff and Alex Bialokoff. Gromoff, copilot Yumoshoff and Navigator Danilin, received permission from the Kremlin to make their flight June 10, and they intended to get away with the Chkaloff-Baidukoff-Bialokoff expedition. Their plane was not ready, however, and bad weather caused a postponement until Sunday. Another Soviet expedition, headed by Sigismund Levanevsky, is scheduled to start from Moscow soon.

The previous long distance non-stop record of 5,637 miles, from New York to Syria, was established by the Frenchmen, Maurice Rossi and Paul Codos, in 1933. The second Soviet air expedition was made under the rules of the International Aeronautical Federation. Officials of that organization along the Pacific coast were notified to be ready to check the barograph of the plane, regardless of where it landed. Officials said that the only precaution necessary was that the barograph was to be sealed when sent in for checking, with affidavits of persons who saw it taken from the plane, with the seal unbroken.

"Pleased and Thrilled"
MOSCOW, July 14.—Soviet officials said today they were "imensely pleased and thrilled" over the successful outcome of the second Soviet trans-polar flight to the United States.

The flight committee, which started preparations to claim officially the distance record for the three airmen, described the speed and distance of the expedition as "surprising."

Bothwell Hospital Notes

The Smithton band will give its regular weekly concert in the Smithton town park at 8 o'clock Friday night. The public is invited.

OBITUARIES

Funeral of W. J. Collins

The funeral of William Joseph Collins, Sedalia city fireman, who died at the Bothwell hospital last Tuesday morning from burns received in a fire at the Charles H. Bard Jewelry store last Saturday, will be conducted at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the East Broadway Christian church, of which he was a member, by the Reverend Ralph A. Fox, pastor of the church, assisted by the Reverend A. W. Kokenkoff, pastor of the First Christian church.

Three hymns will be sung, "The Old Rugged Cross," "City Four Square," and "Beautiful Garden of Prayer." Mrs. Ralph Cowan, Mrs. Homer Hall and Miss Margaret Edwards are in charge of the music for the service.

The following friends will serve as pall bearers: Fire Chief John G. Lucke, Assistant Chief William Middleton, Fireman Creston Clark, T. M. Carver, Elmer Birdsong and J. B. Russell.

Interment will be in Crown Hill cemetery.

The body is at the Gillespie Funeral Home and will remain there until time for the funeral.

Mrs. Edna Cross

Mrs. Edna Cross, well known Sedalia woman, 1305 South Lamine avenue, wife of Ralph E. Cross, passed away at the Mt. Vernon sanitarium about 3:40 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Cross had been a patient at the hospital for several weeks.

Mrs. Cross for many years was in charge of the music for the First Baptist church and was active in musical affairs of this city.

Surviving her are her husband and three sons, Ralph E. Cross, Jr., of Aberdeen, S. D., Jack and Robert Cross, of the family home, two brothers, Bon Burke of La Monte, Fred Burke, of Blue Springs, Mo., and a sister, Mrs. N. J. Hurley, of Kansas City.

The body was brought to the Gillespie Funeral Home. No funeral arrangements have been made pending word from relatives.

Funeral of Frank E. Gibbons

The funeral of Frank E. Gibbons, former Sedalian, who passed away Sunday in Kansas City, was conducted this morning at the Stine and McClure chapel in Kansas City at 10 o'clock, while burial services were held in Crown Hill cemetery at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The Rev. W. B. Selah, pastor of the Central Methodist Episcopal church in Kansas City, officiating.

Pall bearers were friends of the family.

Mrs. Gibbons with her two children Miss Mary Alice and Frank E. Gibbons, Jr., accompanied by a number of friends arrived in Sedalia about noon today and remained at the home of Mrs. E. N. Harrison, 239 South Park avenue, pending the arrival of the body.

SEDALIANS GUESTS AT A FISH FRY

The residents of Lakeview Heights, located 15 miles south of Cole Camp on the Lake of the Ozarks were hosts Sunday afternoon, July 11, to residents of Cole camp their Cole Camp Municipal Band and other families.

A most enjoyable afternoon of music was enjoyed by all, followed by a fish fry late in the afternoon.

Residents of Lakeview Heights spread a most bounteous and delicious table with all the trimmings for the fish fry. About 200 pounds of fish was cooked and eaten. Around 250 were there from Cole Camp and community.

Those playing with the Cole Camp Band and their families going from Sedalia were: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kroencke, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Eickhoff and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Carson Meredith, Mrs. Effie L. Platt, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Eickhoff and Leonard Kroencke.

"Soldier Fallen With His Face To The Battle"

General James A. Farley: "Senator Robinson had been an outstanding American for many years. His sudden death is a terrible thing, and he will be mourned by millions of his fellow citizens."

NEW YORK—Bernard M. Baruch, cancelling passage to Europe on the Normandie: "I am very deeply saddened. Not only has the nation lost one of its greatest leaders, but I have lost one of my closest friends."

Former Governor Alfred E. Smith in New York said: "I heard this morning with very deep regret of the death of United States Senator Joe Robinson. I enjoyed a friendship with him extending back for many years. He was a vigorous and forceful character. His sudden death will be felt in the public life of our nation."

Senator Wheeler (D. Mont.), chief of the forces opposing Senator Robinson (D. Ark.), on the court reorganization bill, called the majority leader "a great leader of men and an able statesman."

"I regret extremely the untimely passing of Senator Robinson," said Wheeler, who for a week has been in bitter debate with the Arkansas over the court measure.

Senator O'Mahoney (D. Wyo.): "Robinson was one of the most lovable, vigorous, able and loyal characters I've ever known. He has made a record that will stand with the greatest in the history of the senate."

Senator McNary (R. Ore.): "I am shocked beyond measure. Undoubtedly the unbearable load he was forced to carry this session hastened his going. The senate has lost a fine companion and the country a great legislator."

Senator King (D. Utah): "I am greatly shocked and deeply grieved at the passing of a dear friend. I had known Mr. Robinson for years and admired his courage. I was glad to support him for appointment to the supreme court. His death is a great loss to the country and to the Democratic party."

Senator Pope (D. Idaho): "No man in the senate was better loved and none will be missed more than he."

Senator Connally (D. Texas): "I'm greatly grieved at the death of Joe Robinson," he said. "He was a useful and able senator. The country has sustained a real loss in his death. He has been overworked and I was afraid it was going to happen."

Senator Capper (R. Kas.): "It is a terrible shock. His death is a great loss to the country and to the administration. I have never seen a leader who had so much respect from both sides of the house."

Senator Ashurst (D. Ariz.), Chairman of the senate judiciary committee: "I am terribly shocked and grieved. The friendship between us was as affectionate as the friendship between two brothers. Our nation never produced a higher type of public servant. He was brave, honest, fearless, a great lawyer and the best and most successful parliamentary leader of this generation."

Comment from others: Uvalde, Texas—Vice President Garner: "The country has lost a great statesman and one of the most efficient and effective legislators in the history of the congress. I have suffered a great personal loss since we were devoted friends, each sharing the other's confidence and good will."

Representative Cannon (D. Mo.), acting chairman of the house appropriations committee: "A great loss to the country. His death comes at a most inopportune time, if a man's death can be termed inopportune."

Senator McGill (D. Kas.): "His loyalty to a cause was never questioned. He devoted his life to the service of his state and nation and was a man of great learning and capacity. His place will be difficult to fill."

Representative Nelson (D. Mo.): ment immediately rejected the demands.

Chinese To Not Abandon Their Hopes Of Peace

All the forces of Japan were being mobilized as replacements for the troops moving in wholesale numbers to North China where Chinese and Japanese armies have been fighting for a week.

Latest advices from Peiping, however, indicated that a peaceful settlement of the North China dispute might yet be reached.

Japanese dispatches recounted that both local Chinese and Japanese officials in the Peiping area were conferring on the basis of these demands:

Immediate withdrawal of Chinese-invoked martial law in Peiping; resumption of all communication services; re-establishment of peace and an end to "illegal" acts against Japanese residents.

The dispatches said that Chinese authorities had released Japanese and Koreans previously arrested in the Peiping trouble zone. (The Nanking government had said it will not recognize any agreement by local Chinese authorities, that the issue is national.)

Formal peace parleys were expected "momentarily."

In London, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said he had been in "consultation with governments of the United States and France" on the Chinese-Japanese crisis.

However, in Washington, associates represented President Roosevelt as believing the time is not ripe to try any world-wide remedy for troubles abroad.

Secretary Hull, continuing his study of the far eastern crisis, reiterated to Dr. C. T. Wang, Chinese ambassador, the statement he made Monday to Japan's ambassador Hiroshi Saito, that a Sino-Jap war would be regarded here as a blow to world peace and progress.

France was reported to have initiated conversations with the British foreign office in an effort to secure the cooperation of the United States in settling the serious crisis between China and Japan.

China's Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek sought at Hongkong to strengthen his grip over South China while the North China crisis is at its height. Chiang appointed the Kwangtung military chieftain, Fuhan-Mow, to be additionally responsible for Fukien province, thereby consolidating the military defense of the adjacent provinces.

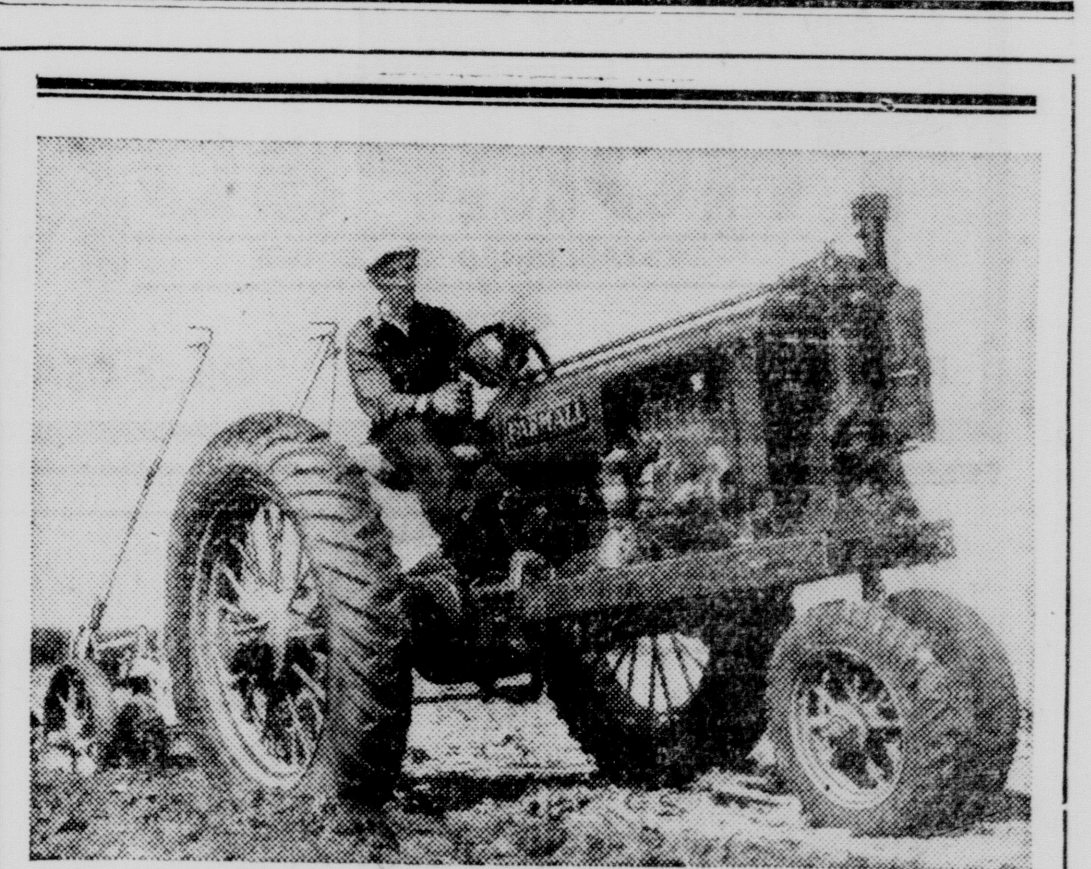

Diplomatic observers predicted that the unified command would materially lessen the possibility of independent bargaining with Japanese along the South China coastal areas.

MISS FISCHER WEDS MR. H. HEINEMAN

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the St. Paul's Lutheran church in Russellville, Mo., Sunday, July 11th, at one p. m., when Miss Hedwig Fischer, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fischer of Russellville became the bride of Herbert Heineman, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. August Heineman of Mora, Mo.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. O. Rossback, pastor of the church, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends of the couple. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers and ferns.

Miss Hulda Wolftrum of Russellville played Lohengrin's bridal chorale as the bridal party marched to the altar. The couple was attended by Miss Lydia Wolftrum as bridesmaid and Edgar Fischer, a brother of the bride as best man.

The bride wore a beautiful floor length gown of white mousseline de soie and wreath and train length veil and carried a bouquet of white lilies. Her bridesmaid, Miss Wolftrum, wore a gown of pink net with blue sash and white shoes and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Following the marriage ceremony the bridal party left the altar to the strains of "Jesus Still Lead On." Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The house was beautifully decorated with bouquets of garden flowers.

At six o'clock a bountiful wedding dinner was served. A large and beautiful wedding cake, baked by the bride and trimmed with a pair of white doves and pink rosebuds graced the center of the dining table.

Mr. and Mrs. Heineman left shortly after the dinner for two weeks honeymoon trip by automobile to Colorado Springs, Yellowstone Park and other points of interest.

The bride's going away dress was of navy blue with white accessories. After August 1st the young couple will be at home to their many friends at Mora, Mo., where the groom has a garage business.

Mr. and Mrs. Heineman received many beautiful and useful gifts and have the best wishes of their many friends for a long and happy married life.

The Missouri Pacific Boosters took undisputed possession of first place in the National Division of the City Softball League and clinched at least a tie for the first half championship by defeating the Montgomery Wards, 9 to 1, last night at Liberty Park in the feature contest of a three-game program marked by brilliant pitching feats.

A no-hit game by Hyatt of the Adcos over the Sno-Flakes; a one-hitter by Becke of the Rosenthals who set up a new strikeout record by whiffing 15 Dixcels, and a two-hitter by Hays that put the Boosters next door to the championship punctuated the evening of stellar mound performances.

In knocking the Wards out of a share of first place the Boosters lashed out eight timely hits including a long homer by Studer with one on and had things much their own way as Hays held the opposition hitless after the first inning.

The Missouri Pacific victory averaged a 5 to 1 setback at the hands of the Wards earlier in the season and put the Boosters in a position to clinch the championship when they meet the Rosenthals, defending titleholders, next Monday night.

Hyatt, in pitching the Adcos, the league's most improved team, to their second victory of the season, did not allow the slightest semblance of a hit and for all the chances they had his outfielders might just as well have remained on the bench.

While striking out 15 batters to eclipse the league record by two, Becke missed a no-hit, no-run game by the slimmest of margins. The only safety registered off his delivery was a fluke single in the first inning, an easy grounder which struck first base and bounced over the first sacker's head. His strikeout total bettered the old record held jointly by Hays of the Boosters and Alpert of the Stewart Avenue Marketers of the American Division.

The American Division winds up the first half of its schedule tonight, but because of other activities at the park Thursday and Friday nights, the Nationals will not complete theirs until next Monday night.

Former Champ on Card

Leroy McGuirk, former National Wrestling Association light heavyweight champion, who will appear in the semi-windup on the Elks' wrestling card at Liberty Park Friday night, McGuirk, national intercollegiate light heavyweight king during his college days at Oklahoma A. and M., will oppose Jack McDonald, the Canadian woodchopper, from Vancouver, B. C., in a two out of three falls match.

THE SPORTS ROUNDUP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, July 14.—Don't let anyone kid you into betting there will be a Max Schmeling-Joe Louis heavyweight title match this year.

Possibly a remote—even if Max changes his mind and comes down to earth in his financial demands. Here's why: Before Louis and Tommy Farr were signed for the Yankee stadium, August 26, Jacobs had booked Louis into London against either Len Harvey or Jack Doyle. . . . Jacobs sent his personal attorney, Sol Strauss, to England to square things with Arthur Elvin, Wimbledon stadium promoter.

Elvin was a good sport. . . . He stepped gracefully aside, saying he wouldn't think of standing in the way of another British boxer (Farr) getting a shot at the title. . . . In return for this sportsmanship, Jacobs guaranteed Louis would go to London in September to fight either Harvey or Doyle under the Elvin banner. . . . So Herr Schmeling must wait until next year, all because he was too arrogant to bother to reply to cables and letters. . . . How does it feel back there behind the eight ball, mister?

Collapse of Hal Schumacher's arm recalls that Doc Scanlon, old big league pitcher, now a Brooklyn physician, predicted Schumacher's career would be short because of his unorthodox delivery. . . . If Hugh Bradley of the New York Post has the right dope, Ducky Pond will be going out at Yale soon in favor of Larry Kelley.

Bradley says this is the reason Kelley turned down all those flattering pro offers. . . . Jimmy Braddock told a Brooklyn sports carnival he'd be ready for another fight in September. . . . and hopes it will be against Max Baer again.

Rumor has it next year's National League contracts will contain a clause making it mandatory for players selected to appear in the all-star game. . . . Suspicion is, some of the boys have been giving the game the old duckaroo. . . . Leo Kelly, who fights "Tiger" Jack Fox here tomorrow night is a deacon in the St. James Baptist church in Los Angeles. . . . Don't make the mistake so many southern scribes are making and overlook Major Bob Neyland's Tennessee Vols in this summer's football book.

Disquieting news: Big Bill Tilden, notorious for wrong guesses, picks the U. S. to win the Davis cup. . . . Jack Curley, the wrestling maestro, who believed the game was on the level, was born Armand Jacques Schule in Alsace Lorraine. . . . His name was changed by a boxing promoter because of Jack's curly locks.

Changes in Game, Fish Laws Recommended to New Conservation Body

By The Associated Press.
ST. LOUIS, July 14.—Changes in the Missouri fish and game laws including licensing of all fishermen were recommended by E. Sydney Stephens of Columbia, chairman of the Missouri wildlife conservation commission, in an address before the Restoration and Conservation Federation of Missouri last night.

Stephens also recommended all license fees and fines for violation of the fish and game laws go to the conservation commission instead of to the school fund as at present.

Discussing the aims of the newly appointed commission, Stephens said: "I believe the entire commission feels the first step is the selection as director of the commission one of the outstanding men in the United States. We are not limited to Missouri."

"We want our game wardens not to be enforcement officers but missionaries in conservation."

LEROY MCGUIRK GETS PLACE ON ELK'S MAT CARD

Former Champion Will Be
Jack McDonald's Foe
Here Friday Night

Leroy McGuirk, former light heavyweight champion, and Jack McDonald, the ex-Canadian woodchopper, have been matched for the semi-windup attraction on the Elks' all-star wrestling card at Liberty Park Friday night, Promoter J. O. Gideon announced last night.

Both McGuirk and McDonald are well known to local wrestling fans, McDonald having appeared here recently while McGuirk was a popular choice here about two years ago. They are down for two falls out of three or 45 minutes on the program which will feature Cowboy Dude Chick, junior light heavyweight champion, and Frankie Taylor, sensational newcomer from Shreveport, La., in a finish match.

McGuirk was fresh out of Oklahoma A. and M. college at Stillwater when he made his first appearance here about two years ago. He made an instant hit with local patrons of the mat sport. Since that time he has won and lost the N. W. A. light heavyweight championship. He was national intercollegiate light heavyweight titleholder for two years during his college days at Oklahoma A. and M.

McDonald, in his appearances here this summer, has been a rough and tough performer, but, according to Promoter Gideon, McGuirk is just as big and just as fast and should prove a great match for the ex-woodchopper.

Another bout is being arranged to complete the card and the principals probably will be named tomorrow.

A STAR-STREWN FIELD ENTERED IN FOUR-DAY PAN-AMERICAN GAMES

DALLAS, Texas, July 14.—A star-strewn field of world, Olympic and national record-holders will perform at the four-day Pan-American games starting here Thursday as part of the Pan-American exposition.

Track and field events Friday and Saturday will witness 10 Americans with national or world marks pit their abilities against athletes from 21 Central and South American nations. The entire program will be staged at night in the Cotton Bowl as a free attraction.

Argentina's famed soccer team will start an international tournament with the Trenton, N. J., Highlanders, American champions, in the initial event Thursday with Canada's Winnipeg Irish club as a third contender.

Earl Meadows, University of Southern California sensation has warned officials to provide 15-foot pole vault standards. He holds the world record at 14 feet, 11 inches, with Bill Sefton, a teammate. Competition will include George Varoff, American record-holder, and Cornelius Warmerdam, from Fresno State College.

Also spotlighted will be a 1,500-meter classic renewing the rivalry between Glenn Cunningham, famed miler, and Archie San Romani, his fellow-Kansas of Emporia, (Kas.) State Teachers.

Elroy Robinson, Fresno's crack half-miler, will tangle with John Woodruff, lean Pitt Negro, whom he defeated for the 800-meter world record at Randall's Island, N. Y.

Giants Only Half Game Behind Cubs by Taking Uphill Game With Phils

PHILADELPHIA, July 14.—(P)—Led by Moore, who rapped out five singles and drove in four runs, including the winning one, the Giants yesterday collected twenty hits off three of the Phillies' pitchers to gain an 11 to 10, ten-inning victory.

The deciding one-run rally followed a six-run outburst in the ninth that tied the score at 10-all after the New Yorkers, now only half a game behind the league-leading Cubs, had trailed from the second inning on.

Passeau, who started for the Phils, had blanked the Terrymen for three innings after giving up eleven hits for four runs in the first five. Then came the ninth and the deluge.

Ripple, pinch-hitting for Baker, opened with a single and, before Manager Wilson could remove Passeau in favor of Johnson, Chicago, Bartell, Moore and Berger also had singled, scoring three runs and leaving two men on base, Ott, first and only man to face Johnson, doubled and another run came home.

Mulcahy relieved Johnson and

GOPHER AND WILDCAT PLAYERS LEAD VOTING FOR ALL-STAR JOBS

CHICAGO, July 14.—Stars of last year's Northwestern and Minnesota teams led today in first returns from the voting to "elect" a college squad to meet the Green Bay Packers in the fourth annual all star football game at Soldiers Field, September 1.

Steve Reid, guard and captain of the Wildcat Big Ten champions, led his division and set the pace for all positions with 5,812 votes. Don Geyer, another Wildcat, headed the fullbacks with 3,804. Ed Widseth, Minnesota's all-America tackle, and Bud Svendsen, Gopher center, topped their positions, the former with 5,682 votes, a total surpassed only by Reid's collection. Svendsen led John Waitrak of Washington, 2,981 to 2,734.

The leaders at each position:
Ends—Bill O'Neill, Notre Dame, 4,937; Merle Wendt, Ohio State, 4,901; Larry Kelley, Yale, 4,862; Charles Gelatka, Mississippi State, 4,834.

Tackles—Widseth, 5,682; Averill Daniell, Pittsburgh, 4,938; Bill Steinkemper, Notre Dame, 4,186; Charles Hamrick, Ohio State, 4,055.

Guards—Reid, 5,812; Inwood Smith, Ohio State, 4,452; John Lauter, Notre Dame, 3,629; Cliff Kuhn, Illinois, 3,518.

Centers—Svendsen, 2,981; Waitrak, 2,734; Mike Basrak, Duquesne, 2,208.

Quarterbacks—Sammy Baugh, Texas Christian, 3,694; Vernon Huffman, Indiana, 2,734; Charles Wilkins, Minnesota, 2,442.

Halfbacks—John Drake, Purdue, 4,937; Bobby La Rue, Pittsburgh, 4,937; Charles Armstrong, Mississippi State, 4,829; Ray Buivid, Marquette, 4,751.

Fullbacks—Geyer, Northwestern, 3,894; Eddie Janowski, Wisconsin, 3,618; Sam Francis, Nebraska, 2,153.

ANOTHER JONES OR LITTLE SOUGHT TO REVIVE INTEREST IN U. S. AMATEUR GOLF TOURNAMENT

By DREW MIDDLETON
NEW YORK, July 14.—(P)—En-tries for the National Amateur Golf tournament close today and, unless there are a half dozen nascent Bobby Joneses and Lawson Littles hidden in the field, amateur golf in the United States likely will continue as a sideshow for the professional game.

Time was when the "love of the game" golfers could spot the pros two or three championships and still emerge with the best of the club swingers every year. Back in the early 1900s Walter J. Travis, Jerome Travers and Chick Evans played some pretty fair country golf and snooted the professional sons of Aberdeen and Glasgow right royally.

Next came Bobby Jones, an amateur who dominated the game for nearly a decade. Then Lawson Little dragged his mammoth driver over the horizon to top the amateurs. But unlike Jones he was out of his depth against the pros.

Some of the fellows who were contemporaries of Jones are still playing—but not regularly. Jesse Sweetser plays in minor tournaments and yearly for the Sweetser victory cup. George von Elm turned pro and Little followed him. The great Francis Ouimet played infrequently. Others who shared Jones' glory, Eddie Held, Jesse Guilford, Johnny Lehman, Gene Ho-mans, George Voigt, George Dun-lap, aren't playing as good golf as they did a few years ago, nor as often.

Johnny Fischer, who beat Jock McLean to take the 1936 championship is the leading amateur.

With him at the top are Johnny Goodman, Reynolds Smith, Scotty Campbell, Walter Emery, Ed White and Harry Givan, 1936 Walker cuppers.

The list of players coming up does not include any name that even threatens to match the fading greats.

College golf is the principal source of supply but it's pretty much a matter of tossing coins when you try to pick the best player among Fred Haas and Paul Leslie of Louisiana State, Chuck Kocsis, ex-Michigan star, Bill Barclay, another Wolverine golfer of talent; Bobby Jacobson, the adept Dartmouth frosh; Stan Holditch, Georgia Tech; Dan Donovan, Notre Dame; Vincent D'Antoni, Tulane; and Rufus King of Southern Methodist.

HIGHER PRICES ON WHEAT MARKET

By The Associated Press.
CHICAGO, July 14.—Higher prices on wheat formed the rule late today as well as early.

Crop reports stressed damage being done by black rust in spring wheat areas both of the United States and of Canada. A handicap, however, to friends of higher prices was apparent absence of any export buying today either of United States or Canadian wheat.

At the close, wheat was unchanged to 1/4c higher compared with yesterday's finish, July $1.25 to $1.26 1/2.
